

International Decision Systems® and Capgemini Agree to Collaborate in Delivery of Equipment Finance Solutions and Services

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (February 7, 2007) – International Decision Systems, Inc., and Capgemini U.S. LLC, a member of the Capgemini Group, have announced that they are teaming up to deliver expanded implementation, training, and process management services to equipment finance organizations worldwide. This agreement combines the resources of the leading, industry-committed software provider with those of the largest consulting practice dedicated to global asset finance.

The agreement demonstrates the two companies' commitment to joint, collaborative efforts for enhanced delivery of strategy, business process design, technical implementation, and related services to companies running or adopting International Decision Systems products. The resulting service offering will extend across the full finance life cycle and the complete International Decision Systems product suite, which includes Rapport® software for web-based origination, InfoLease® and ProFinia™ software for complete portfolio control, and numerous other solutions.

David Nash, Vice President of Professional Services for International Decision Systems, said, "This alliance with Capgemini will allow us to deliver an unparalleled solution to our customers. Their approach to clients, the Collaborative Business Experience, will be highly effective in defining and meeting our customers' needs and matching them with ideally configured, world-class software solutions from International Decision Systems."

Cameron Krueger, Capgemini's Asset Finance practice leader, underscored the benefits of this alliance for current and prospective International Decision Systems customers. "International Decision Systems has a long tradition of providing quality solutions to the market, and their newest offerings provide exciting opportunities for asset finance companies," said Krueger. "They serve many of the world's largest asset finance companies, and the demand for high-quality services surrounding their product suite is impressive. We look forward to jointly serving that market."
