

Stay on Top of Your Game with Transaction Pipeline Management Solutions

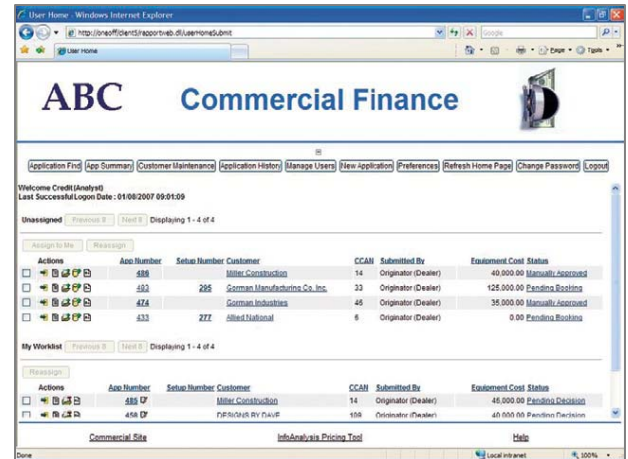

Save time by completely eliminating re-keying of data

Do your current systems support your need to see an up-to-the-minute view of your transaction pipeline? Could you get to that point if your systems could easily share data and eliminate the need to re-key data from one system to another? Could you close deals faster if all of your systems were connected?

With InfoAnalysis® and Rapport®, you can:

- Connect your CRM system to your pricing system, so that customer information and your quoting history are tied together.
- Connect your pricing system to your transaction origination system, so that the customer and pricing information flow seamlessly into credit, documentation and booking processes.
- Streamline your origination process by eliminating unneeded steps, automating predictable actions, and bringing decisioning information to the right people at the right time.
- Flow set-up information directly into your accounting system, with provisions to ensure data integrity.

Enhance your control of your portfolio when your system enforces your own rules

- Both InfoAnalysis and Rapport give you the ability to build your business rules directly into your system, so that your structuring is transparent to the user of the system. InfoAnalysis templates allow you to set up every detail of your deal structure, and Rapport Rules™ let you enforce your policies automatically, behind the scenes. The result is a stronger portfolio built quickly, efficiently and under control.
- Build profitable sales volume by giving your salespeople the ability to structure deals, wherever they are located, that are predetermined to meet your standards.
 - Streamline your origination process by setting up and managing your own business rules, without the need for custom programming.
 - Give your people the ability to efficiently build a stronger portfolio by configuring every aspect of the system to match the needs of your business.
